PRICE LIST
of
The Best Varieties
of Peonies

This list not only contains the choicest and recent introductions of Peonies, but includes also many standard varieties of distinct merit.

I have an exceptionally large supply of plants and am in a position to give extra strong, clean, selected roots, which will satisfy the most critical enthusiast. All my divisions are made from 2-year-old plants, and this insures vigorous growth the following year.

My prices are low, which you will find true by comparing my prices with those of other growers.

All plants are guaranteed true to name and in offering roots the sizes will range from three to five eyes. Orders for Peony roots will be accepted at any time; shipping will begin about September 1st and continue until October 15th.

Terms are cash with order, or satisfactory reference from your bank. All orders will be filled in the order in which they are received. If stock is exhausted when order is received, your money will be promptly returned. No obligation to fill orders after stock is exhausted will be assumed.

When roots are to be sent by parcel post add 20 cents per root if less than three roots are ordered, if three or more are ordered add 10 cents per root. All excess postage will be returned.

Orders exceeding 10-15 roots had better be sent by express. No charge for packing.

WHY GROW PEONIES?

Among all garden plants none are more satisfactory, permanent, easy to grow, and above all more beautiful, than the Peony. They can be grown successfully from coast to coast, from Manitoba to Alabama. They increase in value as time goes on, recalling memories of the past and anticipation of pleasant thoughts of the future. The fragrance of many Peonies is equal to the rose, and for beauty and size unequalled.

Time to Plant Peonies.—Time to plant for best results is during the month of September, the earlier in the month the better. This will give the roots a chance to grow and develop roots for the coming year. If the weather is dry a weekly watering helps to start the roots. When watering, water thoroughly. Do not plant Peony root where fresh manure has been recently applied. There is nothing better to use than well rotted manure and ground bone well mixed with the soil before planting. A slight mulch for the first wintering is beneficial. This prevents the heaving of the roots by alternate freezing and thawing.

Preparation of Soil.—The best soil to grow Peonies is soil not too loose, sand, etc., a good clay loam is well suited. Since the Peony is to grow undisturbed for years in the same place, it is economy to prepare the soil in advance. For permanent planting the soil, unless already in good tilth, fertile, etc., should be prepared a year previous to planting. Any good garden soil with deep cultivation will grow Peonies. Peonies are gross feeders and require plant food. Well rotted manure and ground bone well worked into the soil at planting time or worked in the surface, furnish an abundance of food. An application of wood ashes in early spring is beneficial. When using artificial fertilizer such as potassium, phosphoric acid or nitrates, care should be taken not to overdo it. Keep all fertilizers away from the central parts of plant or stems. In applying manure use only well rotted manure either when planting or as a top dressing.

How and When to Plant.—Plant so that the eyes are covered with soil 2 to 2½ inches deep. If desirable mound up a little more. Plant in full sunlight and keep away from trees and do not plant too close to shrubbery. Plant Peonies in the fall. September is the ideal time for this section. This gives the roots a chance to send out rootlets and feeders.

My success is measured by my ability to please. If you are pleased your next order will show it, so tell your friends about my collection of Peonies and prices.

Correspondence solicited on larger quantities, and additional information cheerfully given.
